Saturday winds 5-8 NE , no waves, no course changes, all about velocity and staying out of the wind shadow of the big boats. More velocity on the left side of the course (we knew that but inexplicably kept going right) Sunday winds 5-8 N shifting to NW, waves>1 foot, all about velocity, playing shifts and staying out of the wind shadow of the big boats. R5 started as a one tacker on port due to huge left shift during start sequence. We nailed the pin end on port, and led the first up and down. Weather mark adjusted for the second beat after we were halfway up the second time and the new location favored our competition. We rounded the top mark going from 1st to third. Excellent spinnaker work allowed us to reel in the competition and a great bottom mark rounding and smart beat to the finish gave us the win. In a dying breeze, r6 abandoned by mutual consent of Lightning competitors. Big boats started then abandoned after ten minutes as we were paddling in. No collisions, no yelling, no protests. Very pleasant weekend of sailing. This regatta is run by the Boyne City Yacht Club within the context of their Mark Madness event benefiting Challenge Mountain's Adaptive Sailing Program.
